EVENT SUMMARY

A student panel discussion was organised as part of the Amity Institute of Social Sciences' month-long celebrations of International Women's Day.

The focus of the conversation was "Women are better leaders than males."

Students from many departments at the AISS took part in the conversation, expressing their opinions on the subject.

*Are women better leaders
than men?*

EVENT OBJECTIVES & HIGHLIGHTS

The purpose of the event was to analyse and comprehend how women have been working in critical leadership positions as educators, teachers, and even corporate-sector professionals during the last few decades.

Furthermore, the discussion topic was constructed in such a way that the speakers would have the opportunity to compare and contrast the two genders and how their job outcomes, methods of work, and which is or is not better suited as a leader. Examples include the Prime Minister of New Zealand's efforts to combat the Coronavirus pandemic, as well as Kerala's Health Minister's role to the state's effective handling of the epidemic.

The panel discussion was moderated by Deepto Banerjee of B.A (H) Political Science, 6th Semester; who also was the student coordinator. Among the faculty members of AISS, Dr. Mayank Tomar, Dr. Sanjana Sharma Marwaha and Dr. Anna Nath Ganguly were in attendance to witness the event.
