

Mr. Maroof Raza,
Author & Consulting Editor, Times TV Network

A former Indian Army Officer, Mr. Maroof Raza has specialised knowledge and experience of Counter Insurgency Operations (CI Ops) by virtue of his stint with the 'Granadiers' and 'Mechanised Infantry' Regiments and as Directing Staff at Indian Military Academy, during his military career.

With his distinguished experience of over two decades as an accomplished mentor, anchor, correspondent, lecturer, writer and a commentator with extensive experience on issues of National Security and Strategic Affairs, Mr. Maroof Raza is Consultant and Strategic Affairs Expert with the renowned TV Channel, 'Times Now' and also Mentor of Security Watch India, a not-for-profit initiative that addresses issues of India's Internal Security.

A brilliant scholar, all throughout, Mr Maroof Raza graduated from St. Stephen's College, Delhi; obtained his Masters Degree in War Studies from the prestigious King's College, London and went on for his M.Phil degree in International Relations from the world renowned Cambridge University.

Apart from his appearances on news debates, Mr. Maroof Raza publishes and writes for 'Salute' magazine and has anchored and presented a 20 Part Series on Indian Armed Forces, titled, 'Line of Duty'. He is also the anchor of a strategic affairs show, Latitude and India Risk Report. He is also the Editor-at-Large of 'Fauji India' Magazine.

As a prolific author, Mr. Maroof Raza has written several bestselling books including, 'Low Intensity Conflicts', 'The new dimension to India's military commitments' and 'Wars and No Peace Over Kashmir', an evolutionary assessment of Indo Pak relations.

Mr. Maroof Raza has won numerous accolades during his accomplished career that include award of the Times of India Fellowship; Visiting Fellowship at the Center for Policy Research, Delhi, Henry L Stimson Center, Washington, and at the War Studies Department of King's College, London.