Prof. (Dr.) Sanjeev Bansal, Dean FMS and Director Amity Business School enlightened the participants with his words of wisdom and welcomed all the esteemed Panelist and dignitaries.

Dr. Balvinder Shukla, Vice Chancellor, AUUP, appreciated the initiative and expressed the need for research scholars to work under the guidance of their supervisors in an active manner. She motivated Research Scholars to work harder and be more dedicated. She stressed upon action research study involves a complex collaborative organizational construct for a reflexive and progressive research.

Research journeys embody an adaptive approach in tackling problems which are characterized by their interconnectedness and emergence. Combining different research paradigms such as expert-driven and participant-directed work is certainly not a cake walk. An archetype is the best pattern to understand something as it opens up new avenues of exploration. Based on this thought first plenary session was designed on the theme: Designing the Research Archetype: Unlocking the power of exploration.

Replicability, reproducibility, and transparency are some of the most important characteristics of research. To enhance the credibility of Research, it is imperative to seize every opportunity diligently as conducting quality research is utmost responsibility of a Researcher. Academic advice and practical support are very much needed to create Research Architects. On the second day of conclave, second Plenary session was conducted on the theme “Research Mavericks in the Driver’s seat: Steering Responsibilities to create Research Architects.

R is a programming language for statistical computing and graphics which is widely used by researchers from diverse disciplines to estimate and display results. This programming language is often used for analytics to identify patterns and build practical models. With an intention to be a partner in the learning journey of scholars we have organized a workshop on R programming to upskill their analytical acumen in the session “Innovation Office: Making Things Happen”. Dr Rupesh Sharma, Visiting Faculty, Shaheed Bhagat Singh Evening College was the resource person.

The notion of orchestrating value based Research has gained universal standing. There are several reasons why it is important to adhere to ethical norms in research. ethical standards just not promote the values but also ensure that researchers can be held accountable to the public. The 3rd Plenary session was centred around the theme “Research Ethics: Orchestrating Value based Research

Valedictory session witnessed exciting competition titled “Conglomeration of Thesis Ideas: Redrawing the Research Battle lines”. The Participants shared highlights of their research work, its social contribution and status of implementation of research outcomes. Participants were evaluated by esteemed jury and winner will be awarded with cash prize money.
