Theme of the Special Session:

This special session is focused on the various innovations in the field of communication technologies, image processing, computational intelligence, Internet of Things and various other intelligent systems. The computational intelligence is a continuously evolving field that is concerned with the various paradigms related to signal processing, image processing, communication systems, control systems, machine learning, RF systems and many other autonomous systems. The computational intelligence also involves the various evolutionary techniques like single-objective optimization techniques and multi-objective optimization techniques. Smart systems are the intelligent systems having the capabilities of sensing, actuating and controlling for the purpose of analysis and decision making that leads to the smartness in these systems. The smartness of the intelligent or smart systems may be credited to their energy efficiency and automation.

The various topics are (but not limited to):

- Neural Networks and Fuzzy Systems
- Robotics and Automation
- Next Generation Intelligent Systems
- Evolutionary Algorithms in Signal Processing and Image processing
- Soft computing and Optimization techniques in Communication and RF Systems
- Intelligent Multimedia Systems
- IoT and Cloud Computing
- Security and Privacy issues in Smart Systems
- Data Analytics and Machine Intelligence
