Amity Centre for Gender Justice and Child Rights, Amity Law School-Noida, AUUP organised a workshop on 8th August'23 under the India Immersion Programme under the aegis of the British Council, United Kingdom in which a debate was held on the topic, "Coexistence of Feminism and Chivalry in Today's World".

The workshop witnessed the participation of various students from different universities of the United Kingdom including University of Sussex, Nottingham Trent University etc.

The workshop was a fruitful & highly interactive experience for everyone under which the below mentioned were discussed & majorly emphasised upon:

In an ever-evolving world, the dynamics between gender equality and traditional notions of chivalry have become subjects of intense discussion. This debate competition aims to delve into the intricate relationship between feminism and chivalry, seeking to understand if they can coexist harmoniously in contemporary society.

Feminism, at its core, advocates for the social, political, and economic equality of the sexes. It seeks to challenge and dismantle oppressive systems that have historically disadvantaged women. Chivalry, on the other hand, has its roots in medieval codes of conduct, emphasizing honor, courtesy, and gallant behavior, often directed towards women.

Foster Critical Thinking: Encourage participants to analyze and articulate their perspectives on the coexistence of feminism and chivalry.

1. Promote Respectful Dialogue: Create a platform for constructive discussions that respect diverse viewpoints, fostering mutual understanding.
2. Explore Intersectionality: Recognize that discussions on feminism and chivalry intersect with various aspects of identity, such as race, class, and sexuality.
3. Highlight Relevance: Emphasize the importance of this topic in contemporary society and its impact on relationships, workplaces, and broader social interactions.

The workshop was a successful effort of the gender justice cell and was able to cater to the upcoming need to deeply engage, discuss & formulate policies and ideas on the topic of utmost significance in this day and age.
